Who’s eligible?

Students entering grades nine through 12 in Fall 2004. The program will give priority to minority students who show an interest in news reporting and writing — especially those who work on high school newspapers or television productions.

What’s the program?

➔ Two-week stay, including food and lodging, on the St. Thomas campus.
➔ Expenses paid, plus a small daily stipend. Higher stipend for those students with financial need.
➔ Classes in writing and reporting.
➔ Classes in layout and design.
➔ Visits to Twin Cities newspapers and television stations.
➔ Team production of a special newspaper page to be included in Twin Cities newspapers.
➔ Team production of a television news story, including on-set anchoring.
➔ Assignment of a professional reporter/writer as a mentor for each student in the program.
➔ Evening activities like music and sports events.
➔ A chance to win a four-year scholarship in journalism at the University of St. Thomas.
➔ Questions?
Call Lynda McDonnell at 651-962-5282 or Delma Francis at 612-673-1717

Who’s on the faculty?

➔ Writers, photographers, artists and editors of the Minneapolis Star Tribune and St. Paul Pioneer Press.
➔ Reporters, producers and photographers from KARE, WCCO, KSTP and KMSP.
➔ Faculty members of the St. Thomas journalism department.
